The software also provides an insight into installations and energy consumption

Comprehensive analysis tool

Buildings generate data continuously. Priva TC Manager not only continuously collects these data from the building control system, but also monitors installation performance and the building's energy consumption. You can put together your desired analysis and display mode in no time at all. With Priva TC Manager you can see at a glance how your installations are performing. The building itself tells you about any deviations and gives you suggestions for improvement. Is something going wrong in one of the systems? The alarm overview quickly shows you where action is required.

Always the desired overview

Whether it is an extensive filter command or a trend graph: you can always save your screen display as a so-called 'view'. The next time, you simply call up this 'view' and it is loaded with the most up-to-date data.
